HEARD AROUND THE CORNER

J. W. Webb returned Friday from the eastern markets.

Mrs. W. H. Robertson returned last night from Kansas City where she had been buying new spring millinery and other stock for her store.

Contractor S. S. Strong commenced work Tuesday remodeling the Christian church. The cupola has been torn down and will be replaced by a lower dome. The interior of the building will also be repaired.

John Meiling, who was located here years ago and conducted a meat market, was here this week from Lawton and is making arrangements to remain permanently. For the present he will be employed in a shop at Forgan but he expects to move his family here in the near future.

G. H. Rush met with a severe accident Sunday night. He stepped out the back door at his bakery and short order establishment and in doing so tripped and fell striking his neck against a leg of an up-turned meat block and cutting an ugly gash. He came uncomforably near cutting his throat. The injury was given prompt attention and is healing rapidly at this time.

The construction of good waterworks and electric light systems and the scattering of ties along the railroad grade ought to be enough in the way of public improvements to suit most inland towns. These three things are what is actually happening in Beaver this week. "It's a long, long way to Tipperary," and old Beaver has been trudging along a good many years but, it begins to look, like the festive bed-bug, we were going to "git thar jest the same."

The Eagle, a new paper published at Forgan by L. L. Beardsley, reached our exchange table last week. The paper starts out with a good advertising patronage which, if it continues, means success for the new publisher. One paper in a town the size of either Beaver or Forgan would seem to be a plenty but Tooker, of the Forgan Enterprise, saw fit to come over to Beaver and put in a so-called second paper. The Democrat, so Beardsley no doubt felt that his town should keep abreast of the county seat in the dissemination of news, so he launched the Eagle. Success to you, Brother Beardsley. Let your Eagle scream.

A notice highly complimentary to Robt. Clark, brother of Mrs. J. A. Spohn, appeared in a Wilkesbarre, Pennsylvania, paper the last week. Mr. Clark is serving as chorister in a big revival meeting which Billy Sunday is holding in that city and which is creating wide-spread interest. Mr. Clark was engaged in the big meeting at the time his mother was injured by a fall, which resulted in her death a few days later. His work as chorister meant so much to the success of the meeting that Mr. Clark remained in the meeting stating that it had ever been the desire of his aged Christian mother that he use his voice in the service of the Master and in her last moments, though with a true mother's love she wanted to see her boy, yet she was supremely happy in the thought that he was about his Father's house.

Union church services were held at the Christian church Sunday evening. Rev. Lewis, pastor of the M. E. church, had charge of the service. He gave a lecture on Sheldon's great work, "In His Steps," using his stereopticon to illustrate his talk. Miss Edna Tweedie also assisted in the service by reading the latter part of the lecture. Special music for the occasion was rendered by the orchestra; the Ladies' quartette, composed of Mesdames W. G. Stranathan, W. T. Quinn, A. G. Thomas and Miss Naomi Niles; and vocal solo by Mrs. W. T. Quinn and Mrs. A. G. Thomas. Union services will be held at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. These union services are being held in preparation for the union revival services which will be commenced Sunday night, March 21st, at the Court House under the direction of the Gospel Team. Union prayer meetings are also being held.

TIES FOR BEAVER RAILROAD ARRIVE.

Five carloads of railroad ties arrived in Forgan Monday and are being scattered along the right of way of the Beaver railroad. We understand that this is the first installment of fifty carloads which are being shipped at the rate of five cars a week, and that the railroad company expect to "fence" their right of way with ties, in an endeavor to put in posts strong enough to prevent freighters from tearing down the fences and using the grade as a wagon road. We were also informed that in order to make a "fence" sufficiently strong to hold these freighters out, the company have ordered out several hundred tons of 60 pound railroad rails, and expect to use these rails instead of barb wire.

They will probably depart from the customary mode of building fences and will lay the ties and steel along the center of the grade. Of course it is foolish to presume that a real train of "kivered kars" will come steaming down that "fence" in the near future. We'd advise freighters to stay off the grade, at any rate. You never can tell what one of those "critters" might do. Even Forgan's beloved W. F. & N. W., might get a good start in coming down the grade into that burg and fail to more than hesitate until the brakes were set on the south side of the river.

TWO MORE CEMENT BUILDINGS.

As further evidence of the faith of residents of Beaver in the success of our railroad project, contracts have been let for two new cement buildings and two others are being definitely planned.

CAN'T DO OUR OWN "RIPPING."

The HERALD received a modest (?) request the past week, and that from a non-subscriber, to publish a lengthy article ripping a certain individual up the back and proclaim to the world at large that "So-and-So" is a liar and a scoundrel, because of a purely personal grievance between the two parties and which difference was of no particular interest or concern to anyone except the aggrieved and "So-and-So." Quoting the Supply Republican, "We refused for the same reason that we never molest a skunk. We have troubles of our own."

The HERALD is always ready and willing to devote its space to any matter of general interest to its readers but if we were to attempt to give space to the airing of personal grievances and would publish all the mean things that we are requested to publish from time to time about the country, the people, the business concerns and individuals we wouldn't have space left for anything else. We couldn't tell the outside world about the wonderful development of Beaver county or the splendid prospects for another bumper crop during 1915. We would even have to eliminate any mention of the fine waterworks and electric light systems which are being installed in Beaver at the present time and there would be no space left in which to tell the people about the arrival of material for the building of Beaver's new railroad and of actual construction work being resumed.

So long as the grievances sought to be aired through the columns of the HERALD, are not of general importance we shall refuse to give them space. As a general thing those who make requests for such publications are not even subscribers to this paper and do not contribute to its moral or financial support. They are too cowardly to meet the person face to face and tell him what they think of him but choose to slay him through the paper and let the editor take the blame. They even go so far as to request that their real name be omitted from the article and that it be signed, "A Reader," "Joshua," or some other fictitious cognomen. Persons who make such requests must think that the editor has no personal grievances [if we wanted to thrust such things upon our readers, we could probably rip a few people up the back on our own account but it was never the idea of the editor of the HERALD that our paper should be used to air personal affairs. Unless a grievance we felt was of such a nature as to be of interest to the public we did not resort to the columns of our paper to tell Tom, Dick and Harry what we thought of them. We were always too busy telling the news and boosting for Beaver and Beaver county.

If our readers or others, have anything in the way of news we are glad to get it and urge you to send it in but if you want to tell somebody what you think of him and air your personal troubles, hunt up the individual and tell it to his face, if you've got the courage.

Tell us the NEWS. Tell your troubles to the police.

LOOK OUT FOR FEDERAL LAW! DON'T SHOOT DUCKS!

We note that some arrests have been made in the State for violation of the federal law concerning the shooting of migratory birds such as ducks, geese, etc.

The law prohibits the killing of these birds in the State from January 1st to September 1st. We trust that all who read this notice will bear this date for the closed season in mind and tell others, so that nobody may get into trouble.

It is generally understood that the law will be pretty rigidly enforced. Don't risk shooting these birds, out of season.

MRS. J. E. TERHUNE DIES.

Mrs. J. E. Terhune passed away Sunday, February 28th, 1915, at the family home near Balke, after an illness of only a few hours duration. Death was due to child-birth. The spirit of the infant took its flight at the same time as that of the mother. Eight children together with the husband and a number of other relatives are left to mourn their loss.

Mrs. Terhune is spoken of by those who knew her, as a kind and gentle woman; one who ministered to her family with loving care and who was ever ready to do what she could for those about her. Her death will be keenly felt in the family circle where "mother" alone can best smooth out the rough places and where her love and care binds up the wounds and makes the dark places bright.

To the bereaved ones the HERALD desires to extend sincere sympathy and in doing so we are joined by all the neighbors and friends of the family.

MRS. JOHN WILSON PASSES AWAY.

Brief mention was made last week of the death of Mrs. John Wilson, which occurred on the train, when, accompanied by her husband and two little children, the sick woman was being taken to El Paso, Texas, in the hope of benefitting her health.

Mrs. Wilson did not appear to be in any more serious condition than usual and her death was sudden and unexpected. She did not complain of feeling any worse but merely laid her head back on the pillow, closed her eyes, her lips quivered slightly and without a struggle, her spirit took its flight as peacefully as if she had just fallen asleep.

The remains were removed from the train at the next station and prepared for shipment, being brought back on the next train to Liberal, Kansas, and from that point the casket was brought over in an auto to Beaver and out to the home of relatives south of town. Interment was made in Busch Chapel cemetery Sunday.

Mrs. Wilson was a young woman well loved by all her friends and neighbors and her untimely demise is sincerely regretted by a large circle of acquaintances and relatives, who knew her best and ever found her a kind and gentle woman, ready to share the burdens of those about her or extend the helping hand in time of need. The community in which she lived will feel her loss and the home in which she ministered with such loving care has been forever blighted by this visit of the Grim Reaper. A husband and two little girls are left in their loneliness to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and a devoted mother.

The HERALD joins with the large number of friends of the family, both in Beaver and the surrounding country, in extending sympathy to those in sorrow.

Sharks in Scottish Waters.

A shoal of sharks, for some days has invaded the Firth of Forth, and one of the Dunbar line fishing fleet reports that a large stretch of fishing gear, consisting particularly of lines, has been carried away. While hauling the remaining portions several sharks were observed to hover about.

The arrival at Forgan Monday of five carloads of railroad ties for the Beaver railroad, seems to have caused residents of that burg to have seventeen conviction fits, if we are to believe the reports that are current. Everybody was calling everybody else a liar and saying, "I thought you assured me Beaver's railroad was dead when you persuaded me to invest in Forgan?" Too bad, fellows! In future when you want to know about Beaver's business, suppose you try consulting Beaver citizens. If wishing a thing dead or working tooth and toe-nail to kill it, could accomplish anything, Beaver's railroad would have been dead long ago so far as Forgan was concerned. We can't blame them so much for that for it is pretty evident that either the railroad or Forgan one must die but, you can put it down in your note book, whenever a citizen of Forgan or anyone else tells you that Beaver's railroad is dead, he is talking through his hat. That railroad is just about the liveliest thing ever right now. At any rate, it is a pretty lively corpse.
